Translated as 'the footprints of Toi', the 16 kilometres of walkways on the outskirts of Whakatane are accessible to most people, regardless of fitness, because they can be walked in sections or as one round trip. Nga Tapuwae o Toi visits three major scenic reserves and a historic reserve. The walkway passes through native and exotic forest, and along coastline and riverbank.

In Ngati Awa oral tradition Toi was a great chief, descendant of the legendary voyager Tiwakawaka and founder of a great tribe. The walkway visits Toi's stronghold Kapu-te-rangi overlooking Whakatane.

The walkway crosses Kohi Point Scenic Reserve, Ohope Beach, travels through the Ohope Scenic Reserve pohutukawa forest, across remnants of native forest to the regenerating flora of Mokorua Bush Scenic Reserve.

How to Get There

The best starting point for the Nga Tapuwae o Toi Walkway is the Whakatane end of the Mokorua Gorge, on the Pacific Coast Highway.
